

Individual Competition Entry and Group Participation

Each year there is great scope for individuals in the criminal justice system to explore their creative talents through nationally recognised public competitions. This can foster in all, a keener sense of self-worth and value, by showcasing a great array of talents and ability in a sector which may otherwise remain relatively unknown.

ARTiculation